...Our Distinguished Alumni

Two CVCC Graduates Recognized as Distinguished Alumni for 2013

John Tamas, Class of 1975 Truck Mechanics Program

Nearly 40 years ago, this hard-working student graduated from CVCC's truck mechanics program, excelling under the tutelage of his instructor at the time, Joe Kilo, who was present when John was presented this award.

John Tamas

Brian Corradi, Class of 1985 Industrial Electricity Program

Brian Corradi learned the basics of Industrial Electricity at CVCC but found his true calling as a dragster team crew chief. He is enjoying success leading a seven-man crew. In 2012, he won the National Hot Rod Association World Championship for Dick Schumacher Racing's Matco Top Fuel Dragster team.

...Our 2013 Spirit of Service Award Recipients

David May, CEO

Naturally Smart Labs
 6892 W. Snowville Rd.
 Suite 300
 Brecksville

Four years ago, Mrs. Patty Kempf, CVCC's Transition to Work teacher, stopped at Naturally Smart Labs, a custom cosmetic manufacturing and contract filling services company. She was looking for a training site for her students with special needs. CEO David May immediately responded with enthusiasm and open arms, creating many opportunities—and sometimes special accommodations—for CVCC students to work alongside his employees.

Over time, a wonderful rapport between Mr. May's staff and Mrs. Kempf's students developed because of the positive and encouraging culture at Naturally Smart. Mr. May has since become one of the strongest advocates and supporters of CVCC's programs. In addition to donating equipment for students to learn on, he treats all the students and staff to an annual appreciation luncheon.

He is now a member of CVCC's Job Training Advisory Board and provides valuable input to improve the program.

Janet Cinadr, RN, MSN

Regina Health Center
 5232 Broadview Rd.
 Richfield

CVCC has several health care programs, requiring many clinical partners and advisory members. But there has been one advisor who has provided extraordinary assistance to CVCC staff and students over the years. Ms. Janet Cinadr, director of Nursing at Regina Health Center, has, for more than ten years, exemplified the Spirit of Service character.

She has served on our High School and Adult Education advisory committees, shared her expertise with our students, and encouraged and advised students seeking post-secondary education. Many of the learning opportunities that she has provided at Regina have translated into jobs for our graduates.

Ms. Cinadr makes it a priority to provide curriculum input and guidance to ensure that CVCC programming stays apprised of health care industry standards and graduates well-qualified students.

Kelly Blazek, Job Search Speaker, Advisor, Blogger

Kelly Blazek, (pictured right) with CVCC Community Partnership Coordinator Patricia Coyne, has volunteered her time and expertise for the last several years to CVCC's Job Seeker group of community members who are transitioning careers. She has made numerous presentations and provided one-on-one assistance to job seekers, giving generously of her time to help participants create game-changing resumes and LinkedIn profiles. A manufacturing communications consultant with a hobby as a "job whisperer," she tweets at @NEOHCommJobs and shares job search strategies at www.kellyblazek.wordpress.com.

CVCC Media Garner OHSPRA Recognition

Cuyahoga Valley Career Center was recently awarded four "Mark of Distinction Awards" from the Ohio School Public Relations Association (OHSPRA). The awards were for various CVCC media pieces including its annual report covering the 2011-12 school year, its public Facebook page, its high school course catalog and its quarterly newsletter, catalyst. Judging was based on content, design and graphic presentation, readability, writing and editing, photography, print quality where applicable, ability to meet goals, consistency between issues, and editing. OHSPRA is a professional organization for school public relations/communications professionals, media technicians and school administrators.

Spring Became a Popular Time for Apples at CVCC

Students in Digital Design, instructed by Mrs. Melissa Munro, not only learned about their program studies but focused learning on positive thinking, by developing an instructional program called "U+ude."

The U+ude curriculum encourages students to focus on the good of a situation, think about the positives in their lives and learn to be optimistic, no matter what kinds of situations they confront.

As part of the project, the CVCC high school students went to various district elementary schools and gave their U+ude presentation using a "glass half full" illustration.

Youngsters were asked to think of their favorite things and draw them on pre-cut pieces of paper to be pieced together so they would eventually fill an empty drinking glass.

The U+ude group distributed green apples to the students, who enjoyed a healthy snack and whose names were then drawn for a chance to win a U+ude T-shirt.

As part of the program, Petitti Garden Center of Oakwood Village donated a Granny Smith apple tree, which was planted adjacent to the CVCC driveway as part of Earth Day Festivities and in conjunction with the U+ude program.

Teacher Presented Prestigious Crystal Apple

In conjunction with Bryant & Stratton College, The Plain Dealer selected CVCC Sales and Service Fundamentals instructor Dan Hughes for its Crystal Apple Award.

Mr. Hughes was nominated by Lauren Georgopoulos who said the following about her instructor: "Mr. Hughes challenges each of us to try our best at new tasks. He tells us it is OK if we make mistakes because we can always learn from them...Mr. Hughes uses idioms and catchy phrases to remind us how to give all customers good service...Mr. Hughes helps us recognize our strengths the same way he has done with his own children... He takes every opportunity to make our day a positive one."

The Crystal Apple is awarded quarterly to three teachers who are selected from student nominations, by an independent panel of judges. There are 12 winners per year, all of whom are invited to attend The Plain Dealer's Crystal Apple awards banquet in May. During the banquet, they are presented their Crystal Apples.

Adults Welcome

Enrollment Available in Select Programs

Certain daytime programs at Cuyahoga Valley Career Center accept adult students, pending enrollment status for high school students, which should be finalized by mid-September. Among these programs are Auto Body, Marketing Technology, Teaching Professions and Electrical and Alternative Energy Systems, a taste of which is shown here as second-year students install a wind turbine in CVCC's energy park this spring. For information on these four programs, or any of our programs, please contact Admissions Counselor Kelli Buccini at 440.746.8236 or kbuccini@cvccworks.edu.

Proudly, the Electrical & Alternative Energy Systems students, led by instructor Irene Ward, raised a 30-foot wind turbine with the assistance of industry partner Erika Weliczko and the Power Equipment Technology students.

The event "energized" our students' sense of pride and achievement in experiencing the under-tapped natural resource of wind. The students have assembled a grid connection to our own building. This was also a proud day for onlooker Angela Thai Bennett, State Board of Education member and visitor to the building that day.

CVCC Thanks Pulsar Controls of Independence for Equipment

A donation of equipment from a local company has opened the doors to a new advanced program in Industrial Programmable Logic Controllers (PLC)s, to be offered by CVCC, according to Richard Haines, Adult Education coordinator of Diversified Industrial Training.

"We feel this equipment will enable us to not only offer an advanced class but to also offer customized training in PLC's," said Richard, adding, "Jim Thomas (CVCC's PLC instructor) already has several of his former students interested in taking the class."

Pulsar, headquartered in Independence, sells industrial electrical controls and components. Six months ago, Dominic Barreca of Pulsar contacted CVCC informing Richard of its Education Donation program, and after the initial contact, CVCC is now the beneficiary of more than $5,200 worth of equipment including five Unitronics Vision 570 Color O (Operator Interface) PLC's and five Snap-in I/O (Input/Output) modules. The PLC's from Unitronics include an integral HMI (Human Machine Interface) as well as onboard I/O - all configured in a single programming environment. For information on these classes, call 440.746.8325.

Chase Barreca (far left) of Pulsar Controls in Independence with Richard Haines and Jim Thomas (far right), delivers the package of industrial electronic controls and components valued at more than $5,200 to CVCC as a donation to the advancement of its industrial training for Adult Education students. CVCC is thrilled to be able to take advantage of Pulsar's donation and offer more advanced classes in Industrial Programmable Logic Controllers, thereby fulfilling its mission of helping students advance to the next level of success and helping local industry with workforce training.

Classes offered by Tri-C

Still Time to Enroll in General Education College Courses Offered Here at CVCC

CVCC and Cuyahoga Community College (Tri-C) are teaming up to better serve people in our local area who seek a college education, with convenience and affordable tuition.

Tri-C is bringing their college instructors to CVCC, where these Tri-C college General Education courses will be taught:

- Biology 1100 lecture and lab
- Psychology 1010
- Speech 1010
- English 1010
- Math 0960

Liz Walton, director of CVCC's Adult Education department, is thrilled to bring college courses closer to CVCC's service area.

"This partnership with Tri-C will allow more people access to college courses closer to home, increasing the many ways we serve our community members," she says. COMPASS (required pre-entrance) testing will be available at CVCC as well, according to Mrs. Walton.

Also offered at CVCC, through Tri-C, are two other programs: Hospitality Management/Culinary and a Strategic Leadership Certificate program, with classes for Strategic Leadership meeting weekly.

For information on the Hospitality Management/Culinary Program, please contact Greg at 216.987.4082.

For information on the Strategic Leadership Certificate program, call Colleen at 216.987.5015.

John Tamas [\[continued from page 1\]](#)

As a CVCC student, John won the truck mechanics national competition. After graduating, he continued his education at Williamsport Area Community College and became a technician for Garfield Heights Coach Lines, Fluid Mechanics Inc. and Shimandles Diesel Service. John eventually followed his instructor's footsteps and entered the teaching profession, becoming a truck mechanics instructor at Lorain County Joint Vocational School, where he teaches today. Over the years, he has accumulated an extensive list of certifications and been a leader in setting industry standards.

John credits CVCC for teaching him the basics, sharpening his skills and encouraging him to apply for the teaching position. And he has not forgotten his CVCC roots as he also finds time to mentor Power Equipment students who work summers at Shimandles.
